Danneley brought another burst of applause when he elevated his trousers slightly and displayed brilliant vermilion half-hose." The play was the Chaperon and is said to have took well with Roswell people.

Mr. J. R. Cannon, the justice of the peace at Hope came in Monday on a very unusual mission for a justice. A Mexican woman had started for Carlsbad to have the justice arrested on the alleged charge of drawing a six shooter on her son. It seems the boy had cut a ditch and was arrested and fined $10.00 and thirty days in jail both of which were held in suspense during good behavior. He shortly after was complained of for repeating the offense. The justice having no constable convenient to serve papers deputized himself and met with resistance and having went armed drew a gun and compelled the boy to come into court and the fine and costs collected and a thirty day jail sentence added. The mother took it upon herself to have the justice arrested by swearing out a warrant before Judge Cunningham. The justice Mr. Cannon was on deck and explained the case in full and had ample evidence. The Mexican boy is now serving a thirty day sentence in jail.

Will Robinson's Boy Dead.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will naturally feel grieved to hear of the death by scarlet fever of Jean Moll, their six year old son, who passed away Monday evening at the family home in Roswell. Will, who is known to be much attached to his little family seems to have more than his share of trouble, for the other day Will Jr. died last June, and this leaves the family with no children. The nature of the disease caused the family to be quarantined and a private burial for the remains of little Jean was conducted Tuesday. The current upon which Mr. Robinson labored for some time extends sympathy, in what is probably the most painful blow suffered by the "Tenderfoot."
